

Department of Political science

The continuous assessment report on both of even and odd Semester

Assessment is the most inclusive part of the curriculum in order to measure the academic progression of the students to assess our students periodically is vital part of teaching learning method in academic con tour. To assess the students is meant how far we teach, how far students grasp knowledge, how far students keep progression by understanding and follow our series of lectures related to various topics of various chapters month after month. The continuous assessment of the students of both even or odd semester is the dire need for the measurement of teaching learning approach Assessment is the pronouncement of the developmental capability of the students, storing knowledge and the prospect of scoring marks higher and higher in university exam .

Techniques of measuring assessment:-

Written class test over one or two questions almost a classical approach is a long drawn one in the history of education , we take different path likely oral , group discussion , symposium , extempore speech which all expose the creative faculty , reasoning power , intuition not to show the record of bookish knowledge .